Profile

With a passion for creativity and a dedication to achieving tangible results, I am seeking challenging opportunities that will drive me to use and develop my competences and provide beautiful results in all my endeavours. As a PhD candidate and an associate professor, I am pursuing a role that will allow me to leverage my expertise and create a meaningful impact through critical thinking and communication. I am strongly passionate about my real estate development business, because it provides an excellent environment in which creativity, boldness and initiative have to be correlated with leadership, decision making and excellent managerial skills.
