RESEARCH PROFILE (List the main areas of research focus, including specific topics, methods, or themes)

Simona Goia’s research interests focus on two main directions: the first one lies in the field of (social) entrepreneurship and social responsibility, as it is perceived in our country by the different actors involved: from the university to entrepreneurs and the representatives of generation Z up to the Romanian entire society (at a broader level). In the light of current developments of technology special attention was dedicated to responsible and sustainable artificial intelligence (perceived also as opportunity to better integrate various vulnerable groups). The second major research field is in the area of human resource management, with a focus on transition from academic/ school to professional life.

The research methods are mixed, combining the qualitative approach with the quantitative one, depending on the research setting and circumstances.
